

Nebraska Gasoline and Diesel Prices

Motor Gasoline

A lack of refinery problems and infrastructure-impacting hurricanes is good news although the nation's gasoline supply cover remains historically thin. For the week of October 1, Nebraska's average gasoline price fell three cents from the previous week to $2.85, which was 60 cents higher than the price at this time last year. Weekly averages in the surveyed cities ranged from $2.78 in Omaha to $2.93 in Columbus. As of September 28, the Midwest gasoline stock level was below the normal range with 47.1 million barrels.

Diesel Fuel

Although Midwest harvesters continue to ramp up diesel usage, demand slowed for a short period as heavy rain spoiled some harvesting opportunities. This week the price of diesel fuel in the state increased one cent from the previous week to $3.15. According to the weekly price report, this week's state average was 57 cents higher than the price at this time last year. Weekly averages in the surveyed cities ranged from $3.09 in North Platte to $3.20 in Kearney. On the supply side, the Midwest distillate fuel inventory level was in the normal range with 21.4 million barrels of ultra-low sulfur diesel fuel and 4.9 million barrels of low sulfur diesel fuel as of September 28.

Notes

Regular unleaded gasoline is regular unleaded motor gasoline with an 87 to 88 octane. Diesel fuel is fuel used for internal combustion in diesel engines. Ultra-low sulfur diesel fuel has sulfur levels of 15 ppm and less while low sulfur diesel fuel ranges from more-than-15 ppm to 500 ppm sulfur.

A general rule of thumb: A dollar increase in the West Texas Intermediate (WTI) crude oil price per barrel will result in a 2.5-cent increase in the gasoline price per gallon and the diesel fuel price per gallon. Likewise, a dollar decrease in the WTI crude oil price per barrel will result in a 2.5-cent decrease in the gasoline price per gallon and the diesel fuel price per gallon.
